

Conference Hits at Price Slashing of U. S. Oil Interests

Ottawa, Ont., July 26 (AP).—Threats to the trade of United States oil and coal interests in the British Empire arose in the parleys of the British empire conference today.

Referring to "unfair trade practices," the committee on trade with the commonwealth heard inferential references yesterday to alleged price-cutting by American oil companies and was represented today as professing that it was unfair for larger companies to force smaller competitors out of business by cutting prices.

The threat to United States coal came in a declaration from the Canadian delegation, placing anthracite coal on the long list of items from which the conference might select articles for British preference.

If anthracite were to be selected it would hit at the present sale of United States anthracite in Canada by opening that market to the Welsh mines. Shipments of American anthracite to Canada last year totaled 1,966,000 tons, compared with 871,000 tons from the United Kingdom.

There have been informal discussions between the dominions concerning primary products, including wheat, meat, lumber, fish and fruits. It was said today the dairy products group had made satisfactory progress. The group considering cereals was still in a quandary, however. Its problem of trade standards and the promotion of British wheat sales under the auspices of an empire marketing board was also a concern of the conference committee on economic co-operation.

Wheat is the most important economic question for Canada, Australia, India and to a lesser degree for South Africa and Rhodesia. The average annual world crop, exclusive of Russia and China, now exceeds 3,700,000,000 bushels compared with 3,000,000,000 during the period of 1909-12. European crops of wheat are now about equal to those of previous years, but the chief non-European countries, the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia, have pushed their production up from 1,476,000,000 bushels to 2,120,000,000.

Before the World War Russian exports of wheat were about 164,000,000 bushels, but from 1924 to 1929 they dropped to 12,000,000 bushels annually. A bumper crop gave Russia an exportable surplus of 109,000,000 bushels in the 1930-31 season. Jumping from total production of 703,000,000 bushels in 1929 to 1,048,000,000 in 1930, Russia increased her production by an amount equal to entire Canadian crop.

During the war the United States usurped Russia's place as the world's greatest wheat exporter and in turn lost to Canada. Now Argentina threatens the Canadian position as result of Canadian wheat pool, which controlled 65 to 70 per cent of the crop in 1929 and tried to force higher prices on the United Kingdom.

American representatives have pointed out that United States export wheat, chiefly a soft variety used in cake and pastries, was of small competition to the hard bread wheats of Canada, which have three contract grades better than the best American hard winters and one equally as good. The home market, it was said, is almost sufficient to absorb American hard winter wheats for bread baking.

Conference Demands
Demands at this conference for British embargo on Russian wheat were said to be predicted on the fact that Russia can grow both hard and soft wheat and undersell the world market. The unofficial English view, however, is that the Russian threat is over-emphasized, since the crop shortage has resulted in few sales of Russian grain to the United Kingdom in the last several months, regardless of Liverpool cargoes.

American interests said today the United Kingdom would do well to take 25 per cent of the Canadian anthracite trade away from the United States.

Most of the Welsh anthracite is consumed in the Montreal district, they said, because of the expensive haul to the interior. The Canadian seaboard is said to have storage room for only 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 tons and the ports are closed by ice part of the year.

Further, they said, ocean transport of anthracite is not profitable except as ballast.

Welsh Coal.
Recently Welsh coal has been selling 30 to 35 cents a ton cheaper than American and Montreal interests are reported to have started expanding port facilities for it. However, Nova Scotia has a soft coal she has been trying to get used as stove fuel in Canada and is represented as standing firmly against increased imports from the United Kingdom. To encourage Nova Scotia industry the Canadian government has been paying a bounty of $1 per ton on lignite laid down in Ontario.

Prospects of Canadian beef cattle replacing the Irish in the British market weakened today when it was found it costs $20 a head to get Alberta stock to the seaboard. Besides, the cattle are stockers and feeders and not the type that can be quickly killed for the market. There has been some talk of shipping them through the Hudson Bay but the inclement weather was considered prohibitory for that.

Currency Expansion Plans Enter Program For Securing Relief

Possible Currency Increases of $6,000,000 Enter Picture—Banks Interested in New Loan Possibilities.

Washington, July 26 (AP).—Possible currency increases of more than $6,000,000 today entered the picture of a government pressing ahead with its relief work.

While President Hoover talked over the $3,500,000,000 Reconstruction Corporation with one of its directors, the treasury let it be known that a dozen banks were interested in what they could do under the Glass-Bohrah amendment to the home loan bank bill.

Mr. Hoover and Gardner Cowles, Sr., recently named to the corporation's directorate, discussed at length the $300,000,000 available under the new relief law for destitute loans to states. What they decided was not announced, but the selection of Fred C. Croton, assistant director of the president's unemployment committee, to assist corporation directors was made known.

Croton, with the unemployment committee for two years, immediately went to work at his new job, adding his knowledge of geographical necessities to the studies of how to expedite relief loans.

The treasury said banks all over the country had inquired about the Glass-Bohrah amendment under which they could issue currency against government bonds bearing not more than 3 1/2 per cent interest.

They seemed principally concerned, it was said, about how soon the law would become effective. The comptroller and treasurer advised the banks that the law would be worked out soon so currency could be issued in less than a week.

Under this new law, banks could deposit eligible bonds with the treasurer of the United States, continue to receive interest on them, and issue currency against them (to the limit of their capital stock) after paying engraving and printing costs plus one-half of one per cent a year for the privilege.

Of $100,000 deposited, however, $5,000 would be retained for the redemption fund, making $95,000 available for new currency.

Plans Progress for Bridge at Catskill

Col. Frederick Stuart Greene will meet Wednesday morning with the Hudson-Catskill Bridge Authority to discuss plans for building the Rip Van Winkle Bridge over the Hudson River at Catskill.

The action was hastened by the signing of the Relief Bill by President Hoover. Representatives of State Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine will attend the meeting. It is planned to borrow the money from the federal government for construction of the bridge, it being pointed out that the work would give employment to many men.

Another matter to be discussed is the issuance of bridge bonds. When the Bridge Authority has passed on the matter, the members will go to New York to arrange with the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for the government's purchase of the entire issue of bonds.

For several years this bridge across the river at Catskill has been projected. The last Legislature gave its consent and created a Bridge Authority. Chairman Clifford L. Miller, of Claverack, has called the meeting for 10:30 a. m.

Goodwin Named to Succeed H. J. Pratt

Philip A. Goodwin, a prominent business man of Coxsack, was designated as Republican candidate for member of Congress from this district to succeed Congressman Harcourt J. Pratt at the meeting of the Republican Congressional convention held on Saturday afternoon at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Mr. Goodwin's name will be presented to the voters of his party at the fall primary in September. Mr. Goodwin is widely known throughout the district and succeeded his father in the coal and lumber business at Coxsack and is president of the Coxsack National Bank. He is also prominent in Masonic circles in the Greene-Ulster Masonic district.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW CELEBRATES 72ND BIRTHDAY

Malvern, Worcestershire, England, July 26 (AP).—George Bernard Shaw, who is 76 today, spent his birthday here where he is on a vacation much the same as he spends every other day. "Conceding the fact that I'm 76," he said.

The noted playwright and sage looked thoroughly fit. But he wouldn't admit it.

"I'm not fit," he insisted, "I'm very much overworked. I've been that all my life."

Seriously entering the export packing industry was said to be the fact it is constituted for domestic trade, largely by American finance, and not equipped for world competition. The western United States, except for the tariff, were regarded as the natural outlet for Canadian beef stock.

World Conference Already Proposed May Suit Senator

Senator Borah Impatient Over Delay in a Formal Invitation to Round-Table Discussion—Government Silent.

Washington, July 26 (AP).—Predictions that the world conference on which the United States already has been sounded out might meet at least some of Borah's ideas emerged today from talk about his plan for a round-table discussion of economics.

At the same time, though, Borah indicated impatience over delay in a formal invitation for the United States to join the meeting sponsored by the League of Nations, expressing a hope that the United States would take the initiative.

The government officially was silent, but in some quarters there were admissions that European nations will suggest debt revision when the next debt payments become due December 15.

No intimation as yet had come from the state department that this country would be willing to talk about debts and tariffs at the suggested conference growing out of the Lausanne meeting. When Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, talked over the new meeting with American officials, he was told the United States would discuss many things—but not war debts and tariff rates.

Borah would trade war debts for disarmament and reparation cancellation. His plan, regardless of administration silence and because of his prominence abroad, was considered at the Capital as at least an overture toward swapping with debt payers next December.

Borah wants arms cut 50 per cent. President Hoover has suggested a 33 1/2 per cent slash.

Meanwhile the United States has not yet said it would decline to analyze war debts individually with European nations. The position has been, and so far as has been publicly stated, still is, that concerted European demands for revision or reduction will be of no avail.

NATALIE TALMADGE TO DIVORCE KEATON

Hollywood, Calif., July 26 (AP).—Off the screen antics of Buster Keaton, film comedian, are listed by Natalie Talmadge among reasons for the divorce she desires from her "frozen face" mate.

"I guess I'm a washout," was Buster's comment on the filing yesterday of a divorce complaint by Natalie after eleven years of married life.

In addition to the interlocutory decree of divorce sought, Mrs. Keaton asked the superior to approve a property settlement whereby she is given the custody of the couple's two sons, Joseph, 10, and Robert, 8, and $500 a month for their support.

Besides remaining away from home at night and returning without explaining his absence, Mrs. Keaton said her husband's behavior in the presence of guests is another cause for censure.

Early this month, she alleged, Buster took her on a pleasure trip and "so conducted himself as to cause her to become humiliated."

UNEMPLOYED RIOT IN STREETS OF ST. JOHNS.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, July 26 (AP).—Several hundred unemployed men rioted in the streets early this morning, pillaging shops and smashing windows before police could get the disorder in hand.

Two policemen were injured and eighteen of the rioters were arrested. The trouble began after police thought they had quieted a disturbance which took place last night. Before midnight several hundred unemployed paraded to the residence of Acting Premier H. A. Winter, demanded work and then marched to the business district where some windows were broken.

ARGENTINA SEEKS TO SECURE ALLIANCE

Buenos Aires, July 26 (AP).—Argentina is seeking an alliance with Peru, Brazil and Chile to prevent war between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco dispute, the Associated Press was informed on good authority today.

It was learned that Argentina intends to exert the utmost moral pressure to bring about a settlement of the dispute by arbitration. The neutral nations of South America, this source said, are determined that the years of effort spent to settle the Gran Chaco system must not be rendered futile.

JOBLESS MAY INTERVIEW MAYOR EVERY MORNING.

So many people have been unable to find work this year in the city that Mayor Carey has found his time taken up interviewing applicants seeking work. So much time was consumed that the mayor has been forced to set aside an hour each day for the purpose of granting interviews. A placard reading "Interviews for work given only between 10:30 a. m. and 11:30 a. m." has been placed on the door of the mayor's office at the city hall.

Boats Destroyed by Fire.

Cortland, N. Y., July 26 (AP).—One hundred new boats were destroyed today when fire swept part of the plant of the Thompson Boat Company with a loss estimated at one hundred thousand dollars.

Federal Agents Had Busy Time Monday

United States Commissioner Connelly's office was a busy place today as the result of activities of Kingston prohibition agents on Monday, six of eight arrests having been scheduled for appearance before the Kingston commissioner.

Greene county received the special attention of the agents Monday, five arrests being made in that county.

The largest seizure was at Hensonville, where an alleged deer drop and bottling plant was raided, complete equipment for bottling seized, along with large quantities of alleged rye whiskey, gin, beer and home brew beer mash. They also seized a Buick sedan containing alleged liquor. Clark J. Seeley was arrested and arraigned on charges of manufacture, possession and sale.

On the highway at Hensonville the agents seized a Chevrolet truck, with alleged beer and arrested Floyd Bullock.

At the Acra Hotel, Acra, the agents arrested Charles Larkey and seized quantities of alleged apple and rye whiskey, gin, beer and hard cider. Larkey was charged with possession and sale.

Harry Gordon was arrested at the Halfway House, Hunter, and alleged whiskey seized. Charged with sale and possession. On Route 23, at Kessell's Roadhouse, Windham, Charles Kessell was arrested and alleged rye and apple whiskey and beer seized. He was also charged with possession and sale.

At the Union Hotel, Fishkill, the agents arrested Gustave Schrader, who was charged with sale and possession. They seized alleged Scotch, apple and rye whiskey, gin and beer.

All the above defendants were arraigned before Commissioner Connelly.

Two arrests were made in Newburgh Monday. At Joe's Hotel, 102 Washington street, Patrick Whelan was arrested on a search warrant and alleged beer was seized. He was arraigned before Commissioner Northrop and held for a hearing later. At 69 Mill street Paul Pesce was arrested and a quantity of alleged wine seized. Commissioner Northrop held him under $500 bail for a hearing later, the charge being possession.

Two Drowned In Adirondack Region

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP).—A middle-aged superintendent of an Adirondack summer estate at upper St. Legis lake lost his life in an attempt to rescue the son of his employer and a ten year old girl was drowned when he fell from a dock into the St. Lawrence river near Clayton, yesterday.

Walter Drury, 50, Valley Forge, Pa., dove into 20 feet of water to the rescue of Charles Hancock, 9. The boy's mother, Mrs. Frank Woodson Hancock, also plunged into the water. The three were rescued by a guide and Boy Scouts, but Drury failed to revive after four hours of work by an inhalator.

Joyce Macadam, 10, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Macadam, of New York city (2264 University avenue), drowned at her parents' summer home when she fell into the water while trying to catch minnows in a net.

Aquila Stockdale, 14, was carried over a 40 foot dam in the Saranac river. Although the force of the plunge sent his somersaulting through the air toward the rocks below, he landed feet first in a shallow pool and was only bruised.

Four Cases Before Judge Culloton

Four cases were brought to the attention of Judge Culloton in police court today. Joseph Cozzi of 6 Hanratty street, arrested on a warrant sworn out by Mary Cecella charging Joseph with assault in the third degree was adjourned to Thursday when Cozzi entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

The cases of Bernard Czameski of Ulster avenue, and Arthur Parks of this city were heard by the judge in his private office. Czameski was accused of disorderly conduct by his wife and Parks for failing to provide for the support of his child.

Raymond Jacobs of South Prospect street, arrested on a petit larceny charge, pled guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or spend 25 days in jail. The serving of the sentence, however, was suspended provided he made restitution. It was claimed he had collected money from a customer of the Modern Home Supply and had not turned it over to the company.

McElroy Recovering.

Mexico City, July 26 (AP).—Clarence McElroy lost more than forty pounds during the 13 days in the Oaxaca jungle following his airplane crash on June 27. A medical examination showed today. The doctor said the flier would slowly regain full use of his injured leg. His condition is fair, the report said, but he will need much rest and care to regain full strength.

Ascension Church at West Park Celebrates Its 90th Anniversary

The Ninetieth Anniversary of the founding of the Church of the Ascension, West Park, was observed on Sunday, July 24. At 8 a. m. there was a celebration of the Holy Communion at which all those who have been connected with the parish since its beginning and who have departed this life, were remembered in the prayers for the dead. The church was well filled for the special service at 11 o'clock. About 80 people remained for the reunion and luncheon in the new parish house.

In his address, the rector, the Rev. S. Glover Dunsen, reviewed the history of the parish since its founding in 1842, when the Rev. Reuben Sherwood, D. D., of St. James' Church, Hyde Park, of which Governor Roosevelt is the present Senior Warden, came across the Hudson to conduct services and organize a church for the people of Esopus. The first rector was the Rev. A. D. Traver. Others who have served the parish are the Rev. Randall C. Hall, the Rev. R. Temple, the Rev. Henry B. Sherman, the Rev. Alexander Capron, the Rev. Hugh Richmond Dickinson, the Rev. Richard C. Searing, the Rev. E. A. Evans, and the present rector.

Some of the best known of past and present Episcopal Bishops have visited Ascension Church to confirm or to preach. Such names as those of Bishops Onderdonk, Horatio and Henry Codman Potter, David H. Greer and Charles S. Burck appear on the records. During the present rectorship, Bishop Manning visited the parish to lay the corner stone for the new parish house, Bishop Shipman came to confirm and to break the ground for the new building and Bishop Gilbert has made several visits to confirm or preach.

The rector paid high tribute to the late John U. Brookman who in 1913 established the "Brookman Fund" for the benefit of the parish. The income from this fund provides about half of the annual expenses of the church, and enables this old parish to continue to serve this country at this time, when much of the wealth for which this side of the Hudson was once noted, has moved away. The parish records contain the names of the late John Jacob Astor and wife, and the present William Waldorf Astor; the Pells; Griffiths, Durkes, Seelys, Brookmans, Bedford, Van Benschoten, DuMonts, John Jewell Smiths and others. For a number of years before his death, the Hon. Alton Brooks Parker, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1904, was a vestryman. His widow and his daughter, Mrs. Charles Mercer Hall of Esopus are both deeply interested in the parish at the present time.

At another point in his address the rector said: "Ninety years is a span of life of no mean dignity. One might antiseptically more readily over an anniversary that commemorated the completion of a century of life, but it is always well to remember that a hundred years is made up of ones and tens. The running of a race involves the passing over every foot of ground between the starting point and the finish line. The nearer the goal the greater the test of endurance. So it is with those of us who are alive and worship here and love this old church today. We are part of the great company of those who during the past ninety years have gone before us, and it is for us to determine what the quality and character of the work of this church shall be during the next ten years as we approach the century mark of our corporate life. Let us care for this old building and this lovely property as we would a precious jewel bequeathed to us."

The present vestry was represented by Haskroth Freer, junior warden and treasurer, and his family; Julian Burroughs, clerk; James M. Ackert and Howard Mackey and Miss Mackey.

At the reunion and luncheon which was held in the fine new parish house following the morning service, brief addresses were made by Senator Charles W. Walton, who was present with Mrs. Walton, the Rev. John Marshall Chex of Newburgh, who was accompanied by Mrs. Chex and her sister, Miss MacDonald. Mrs. M. C. Allen, who is in her ninety-second year, made a short address, and Mrs. Charles Atkins of Esopus, eighty-four years of age and the oldest member of the church, expressed her happiness at being able to be present. Fr. Mayo, O. H. C., brought greetings from the Order of the Holy Cross.

Others present were: Mrs. Hermon Kelley of St. Regis and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kelley of Cleveland; Mrs. Alton Brooks Parker and her sister, Mrs. N. C. Bennett of Brooklyn; Mrs. Charles Mercer Hall; Edwin W. Olivett of Poughkeepsie; Miss Ruth Whitcraft and Mrs. Arthur Whitcraft and friend of Port Ewen; Mr. and Mrs. William Yessie; Mrs. Fred Hush and Bert Hush; Miss Viva Freer and Miss Grace Freer and friend; Mrs. Vincent Quinn, Webster Jones, Miss Alice Jones and Vincent Roberts; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mott and family; Miss Irma Mott; M. C. Allen; Floyd Bell of New Paltz and Miss Ruth Ann Lee of Middletown; W. Hermon Jordan of Highland; Theodore Iwetz; Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Demarest of Rosendale; William H. Van Benschoten and Louis Wetzel of Scottsdale, Arizona; Mrs. William Hooper; Mrs. Alice DuMont; Miss Ada DuMont; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green, Jr.; Mrs. Maude Ryan; the Misses Lumb of Poughkeepsie.

Managers to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of the Old Ladies' Home will be held at the Home Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Would Restrain Ackermans From Closing Road To Pool

Action Brought in Supreme Court by Mollenhauers to Restrain Ackermans From Closing Road Leading from Rosendale to Sturgeon Pool Power Plant of Central Hudson Corporation.

Residents Testify Before Grand Jury

Malone, N. Y., July 26 (AP).—More Alexandria Bay citizens were summoned today before the federal grand jury investigating recent scuffles between dry agents and residents of the resort town which led to the slight injury of five persons.

In an all day session yesterday the jury was able to hear only about half of the 33 citizens subpoenaed, together with a group of prohibition agents, to tell of the Alexandria Bay disturbances.

At the end of the session Assistant United States District Attorney John W. Genaway would say only that the testimony had been "voluminous and enlightening."

Meanwhile speculation grew as to the possible results of the inquiry. The district attorney's staff has maintained silence and has not revealed whether indictments are to be sought against any of the participants in the disturbance at the resort in which two agents were beaten and their automobile tires slashed.

Another view was that the inquiry was merely to determine responsibility for disorders accompanying the two recent raids which sent telegrams of protest flying to Washington from the villagers.

An investigation was ordered by Amos W. Woodcock, commissioner for prohibition, as a result of the protests.

Lifts Martial Law From German Cities

Berlin, July 26 (AP).—President von Hindenburg signed a decree today lifting the state of martial law which was put on Berlin and Brandenburg last Wednesday.

Public order and security no longer were endangered, the president said, and he signed the decree.

As a result of the order the executive authority reverted to the president of police in Berlin and the governor of Brandenburg. Chancellor von Papen continued to hold his new post as commissioner of Prussia, however, with Dr. Franz Bracht, lord mayor of Essen, as his deputy and virtual dictator over the state, largest of Germany's political divisions.

Martial law had been in effect just six days. It was signed by the president at the same time that the dictator was set up in Prussia following a vociferous demand that the political rioting which took a toll of 100 lives and injured 1,250 in less than a month be stopped.

Mellon Denies He Will Resign Post

New York, July 26 (AP).—Andrew W. Mellon, returning today on the liner Majestic, denied reports that he intended to resign as ambassador to Great Britain.

"That's news to me—midsummer news," there is no foundation for it, he said, Mr. Mellon.

The ambassador while on board the boat was not certain whether he would go directly to Pittsburgh or to Washington, but said he would spend no time in New York.

He declined to discuss the reason for his trip home, saying only: "there was a full over there for the time, and I took advantage of it."

FEDERAL AGENTS GET TWO STILLIS AT CAMELOT.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 26 (AP).—Prohibition agents raided a farm at Camelot yesterday, arrested two New York city men and seized 5,600 gallon stills, valued at $75,000. The men gave their names as Suizi Torre, 28 (120 McDougall street) and John Leon, 35 (88 Ridge street).

FOUR GET SENTENCES TO JAIL FOR VAGRANCY

Roy Garrison, 23, and Joseph Finley, 21, both of New York, were given four days in the Ulster county jail by Justice Walter Webber, on charges of vagrancy. The same judge on Monday committed Barney Kaplan, 21, and Tobias Kaplan, 20, seamen, from Brooklyn, for two days on the same charge.

Road Little Traveled

While the road for many years has been but little traveled past the Mollenhauer property it is, according to plaintiff, a public road which led to the creek and over a fording place to the Creek Locks ford. At times when the water con-

An action for a permanent injunction was taken up for trial this morning before Judge John T. Loughran in Supreme court. The action is brought by Otto and Louisa Mollenhauer against Margaret and Alfred Ackerman and the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation to restrain the defendants Ackerman from closing a road in the town of Rosendale which runs from James street, Rosendale, over the Ackerman property and over the Mollenhauer property down to the Sturgeon Pool power plant of the electric corporation.

Lloyd L. LeFever and Andrew J. Cook appear for plaintiffs and the defendants Ackerman appear by Chris J. Flanagan and William A. Kaercher while the Central Hudson corporation appear by Judge A. T. Clearwater.

The electric corporation appears as a party defendant with the Ackermans on order of the court in order that all of the party interests may be determined in one action. While a party defendant the electric corporation is in the same situation as the plaintiff Mollenhauer in that the corporation desires to use the roadway to gain access to its lands which lie to the east and across the Ackerman lands from the village of Rosendale.

This matter has been before the courts before when application was made last fall for a temporary injunction to restrain the owners of the Ackerman property from obstructing the road which was used by the owners of the Mollenhauer property as well as the electric corporation. Following this motion for a temporary injunction it was stipulated that the obstructions be removed pending final determination of the question as to whether the road in question is a public road as plaintiff Mollenhauer contends. Prior to that time there had been difficulty and the plaintiffs alleged that the defendant Ackerman had obstructed the highway in various ways.

Is Road Public?
The present action before Judge Loughran is to determine whether this road is a public road as contended by plaintiff Mollenhauer, or whether it is a private right of way which may be closed by the Ackermans where it crosses over their lands. The application is for a permanent injunction restraining the owners of the Ackerman land from closing the way. Plaintiffs claim the road is a public town road and has been such for a long time and that it cannot be closed.

At the point where the Walkkill and the Rondout meet there is a peninsula extending out to the junction of the two streams. On the Walkkill at Sturgeon Pool is the power plant of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. From this peninsula the electric corporation and the Mollenhauer family have been using a road which leads over the Ackerman property and past the Rosendale Development Company lands on toward Rosendale village by way of James street. The contention of the plaintiff is that this is a public town road and cannot be closed. The road is some half mile in length. Plaintiff Mollenhauer purchased the lands in the valley about 1914 and used the road for some time without obstruction. They alleged that the road is a public one and that it has been used for many years and that when they bought the lands they now own at the junction of the two streams they believed it was a public road.

In opening the case Mr. Cook stated that the plaintiff expected to show that for 70 or 80 years the road in question had been a public one, that so far back as the old residents could remember there had existed a road there without obstructions. He said that there had been for a time a gate at the boundary line of Mollenhauer and Ackerman placed there by Mollenhauer for the purpose of keeping his cattle at home.

Road Little Traveled
While the road for many years has been but little traveled past the Mollenhauer property it is, according to plaintiff, a public road which led to the creek and over a fording place to the Creek Locks ford. At times when the water conditions permitted this ford was used by the public but so far as its use as a public way was concerned Mr. Cook said the road practically ended at the Mollenhauer lands. The Mollenhauer lands lie on both sides of the creek. Plaintiff claims that the road in question is the only available road to get to and from the premises by vehicle.

Plaintiffs allege that after the Ackermans bought the property and about 1920 they put up a gate. The first protest over use of the road was made to another party using the road and later they sought to prevent the Mollenhauers from traveling it.

It is the contention of the plaintiffs that in 1908 and 1909 the town superintendent top-dressed the road

Nearly Total Eclipse Of Sun May Be Seen Here On August 31

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Nature will lay a total eclipse of the sun at New York state's front doorstep, Wednesday, August 31.

Although the path of totality skirts across only a tiny northern corner of the state, most New Yorkers will find themselves within fairly easy traveling distance of the spectacle.

Occurring about 2:30 p. m. E. S. T., the eclipse is expected to draw thousands. Motorists and rail travelers from even the westernmost counties of the state will be able, by starting early in the day, to reach the belt of totality. This belt, in which the sun will be wholly obscured from view, curves down across New England, Montreal, Derby, Vt.; Bartlett, N. H.; and Portland, Me., are some of the points in the path.

Rouses Point, N. Y., is on the southern edge of the belt, and the total eclipse will be visible very close to that community. The northeastern reaches of Lake Champlain will be darkened when the moon blots out the sunlight. The path of totality is about 150 miles wide.

Roads in Good Shape
New Yorkers will find highways to Montreal and Rouses Point in good condition. Trains and bus lines also will carry travelers, among them many scientists, into the region. Travelers from southern and southwestern New York, approaching through Albany, will find Governor N. H. the nearest point of totality. Observed about 100 miles northeast of Albany is on the southern edge of totality.

Northeastern Vermont, northern and southwestern New Hampshire, western Maine and a tip of Massachusetts all within where many New Yorkers spend vacations are in the path of totality. Boston is only a few miles south of the path.

The total eclipse will be visible for about 100 seconds. If the sky is clear the sun will slowly be blotted out, until only a curve of bright light between the mountain peaks of the moon is left. Then this will disappear and the spectacular corona will flash into view.

New Yorkers also will not have the opportunity to witness the eclipse, one will witness a partial eclipse, in eastern New York the eclipse will be nearly complete, however, that the daylight will fade to twilight and only a slim ring of the sun will be visible.

Danger in Overhead Wires

The presence of overhead wires at the usual heights from the ground is not known to affect the severity of an electric storm, or to alter the point at which a stroke takes place; but such wires may receive a discharge which in their absence would strike some other object in the vicinity.

Giant Statue Never Cast

Leonardo's statue of Francesco Sforza, which would have weighed 200,000 pounds, was never cast and the model was allowed to perish. The model was 25 feet high. Leonardo was employed on this memorial during the first ten of the sixteen years of his residence in Milan.

WEST SHOKAN.

The attendance at the Community Center service on Sunday afternoon was by far the largest of the season. Among the prominent out-of-town people present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Toms of Woodstock, Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Toms and family of Salem county, New Jersey, and Miss Bernice Merrill of Brown Station. The topic of the Rev. Sharp's sermon was "Christ Our Substitute," selected from Matthew 11:28-29. As an offertory selection the Rev. Sharp's son, Frank, sang a solo, "In The Garden," which received many favorable comments. The topic of next Sunday's sermon will be "God Manifest In Nature."

There was a fine attendance at the Sunday school session also. As a special selection Ruthie Pleasants and Veronica Hartman sang a duet, "Can a Little Child Like Me." The topic of next Sunday's lesson will be, "The Giving of The Manna."

The old crowd and numerous newcomers were on hand Saturday evening to meet Frank Constable and his Royal Delawares at their first local appearance of the season at Colman Hall. Their peppy dance program was greatly enjoyed, especially the Paul Joneses and the rollicking Delaware county old-fashioned square dances. These dances are to be continued each Saturday night till September with the Royal Delawares at the helm.

Hot dry weather and the busy harvest season does not affect in the least the attendance at the Saturday night session of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge, as at the last meeting 25 were present. Visiting members at the gathering were the present noble grand, Mr. Neilson, and Past Grand Leathner of Hiawatha Lodge of Rosendale, who were accorded a most cordial welcome. Plans are forming for the "Big Parade" to take place at the opening of the I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge session in Poughkeepsie on the evening of August 17. At least 50 members of Shokan Lodge are expected to be in the line of march, also 30 from Hiawatha Lodge with the Shokan delegation. Thousands of Odd Fellows and Rebekah members from all over the state will make this, it is expected, one of the greatest I. O. O. F. demonstrations ever held. The Ulster county parade will be headed by the stalwart figure of Past District Deputy Virgil C. Gordon of Shokan Lodge as color bearer, and the Highland Fife and Drum Corps. At the close of the lodge session there ensued the usual hotly contested pickle and euchre games.

Jordan Brothers of Brotham Heights finished threshing wheat on Saturday. The field which wheat and high and attracted considerable attention while growing, threshed over one hundred bushels of grain of excellent quality.

Harry Jordan of Roxbury, accompanied by his friend, Herbert Powell of Schenectady, were visitors here on Sunday. Harry reports that the hay crop this year in Delaware county is extremely heavy, and great strides in the harvest have been made in the past two weeks.

The Watson Hollow bungalow colony on the Gene Kerr farm, is well occupied at present. Among those summering there are members of the Darby family of New Jersey. On Saturday a group of the cottagers, piloted by Robert Darby, New York University Junior, enjoyed a hike to High Point, making the ascent from the West Shokan Heights side. Although showers threatened during the morning, the weather fared away beautifully and the party had a most enjoyable trip. Mr. Darby reports that due to the fire this spring, which swept the entire mountain crest, very few huckleberries are to be seen.

Mitchell Avery of Watson Hollow and Harold Constable were Kingston shoppers Saturday evening.

North Brothers of Shokan have finished the relaying of Mrs. Watson Bishop's chimney and the repairing of the roof damage. "Shake and Earle" sincerely know their stuff and are very competent workmen.

The newly painted school house and the picturesque surroundings of the grounds present a most attractive appearance to all passersby on the boulevard. The West Shokan school is conceded one of the finest rural district properties in Ulster county.

Judge and Mrs. Fred L. Weldner of North Main street entertained a group of out of town visitors on Sunday.

Charles H. Weldner is making ready for additional building operations at Hickory Hill.

Although the wonderful shower of Friday revived gardens and growing crops, the brisk northerly winds have pretty well dried out the earth again. No, it isn't a good five cent cigar that this section of the country needs, but rather a genuine soaking rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl H. Carey of Kingston, accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Lebie, were callers at West Shokan Heights Sunday evening while on a drive around the reservoir. Mr. Carey is the Ulster county representative of the Provident Life and Trust Company of Philadelphia.

On Sunday a party of guests, spending the summer at the cottage and home of Mrs. Minnie Smith, resided at Hunter. The group consisted of Mrs. Edward Gilles, and son, Eddie, also Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hartman and daughter, Veronica.

Miss Bernice Merrill of Brown Station was a dinner guest at the home of Mrs. Chase Davis on Sunday evening.

Miss Marjann Davis spent Saturday evening at the home of her former schoolmate, Miss Edna Gossamer, of Olive Bridge.

Harold Hillary of Hempstead, L. I., who has been spending a few days with his aunt at the Sigourney Cottage at Watson Hollow, regrettably returned home Sunday after enjoying a wonderful time in the country. Harold is driving a spiffy new Chevrolet de luxe sedan.

Miss Early North of North Main street celebrated her birthday on Sunday. Mrs. North was visited by a group of relatives from out of town among whom were her brother, Henry Eckert and sister, Mrs. Rosanna Barlow of Kingston.

Merritt Bell of North Main street Heights is a frequent caller on his near neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Early North.

Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Toms and family of Salem county, N. J., are spending a week in this locality visiting with his brother, Fred, and family of Woodstock. Mr. and Mrs. Toms were formerly for a number of years missionaries in Korea.

Charles H. Weldner of Hickory Hill was a caller at West Shokan Heights Sunday morning.

Among visitors entertained by Sheppard Bell, proprietor of the West Shokan Inn on Sunday afternoon were a group of former old time and well known residents of Olive. Herbert Bell and Henry Winchell of Kingston. Mr. Bell for many years conducted a harness making and agricultural implement business in West Shokan village and Mr. Winchell lived in the ancestral home on the road to Samsonville, now the High Point Springs property which he sold to Mr. Brechard in 1910. Mr. Bell was accompanied by his wife and brother-in-law, Mr. Woodruff, now of Boston. Mr. Woodruff likewise was a familiar figure about the streets of the queenly old village.

Ernie and Abie Constable of High Point Mountain are holding a moving bee Monday afternoon. A whole stack of invitations are out and without doubt the response on the part of friends and neighbors will be loyal.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Condon of Palenville, with a party of friends, were visitors in this locality on Sunday. They came in quest of huckleberries, which are not in abundant supply this season.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every visited their son, Edward, of Harwich street, Kingston, who was injured when buried with his truck in the sand slide at Willbur on Wednesday. Mr. Every was unable to be moved to the hospital Saturday, as was reported. Sunday his condition was said to be slowly improving. He would be very much pleased to receive a visit from some of his old friends up in rock bound Olive.

The "Like Quartet" gave a very pleasing entertainment at Blue Gates Inn, before their departure. Miss Frances Garigan gave several of her eccentric dances, accompanied by Miss Elaine Walsh on her banjo. Madeline and Anne gave a two some monologue entitled "Quiet Life in the Country." Miss Elaine then sang some of her songs, written by herself. After which refreshments were served by the hostess, which were enjoyed by all.

Even though folks say there is "depression", Blue Gates Inn is filled to capacity over the week-ends, as well as season guests.

Walther League to Select New Officers

Los Angeles, July 26 (AP).—Election of officers and the start of an annual oratorical contest drew the attention today of delegates to the International Walther League convention.

Yesterday they heard speakers urge modern youth to grid itself for a fight against rising crime and corruption.

Results of the oratorical contest will be announced Wednesday after contestants complete their stunts in various sections of the city where sections league meetings are being held.

G. Christian Barth, president of Concordia College, Milwaukee, Wis., told the delegates yesterday that never before "since Cain slew Abel" had crime and corruption been so rampant. He urged the Walther League to grid itself for a fight against such influence.

Financial And Commercial

New York, July 26 (A).—Speculators for the rise retained control of the stock market today, in face of a considerable flurry of profit taking during the morning.

The market was able to do little more than recover from the effects of the morning selling, however, as leaders turned cautious in advance of the U. S. Steel directors meeting for the close. Furthermore, there was a feeling in some quarters that the list was entitled to a corrective reaction after as vigorous an advance as yesterday's.

Such issues as U. S. Steel preferred, American Can, American Telephone, Santa Fe, and Standard Oil, recovered after sagging about point. Among the lower priced issues, General Electric and Consolidated Oil were active features, rising fractionally. Richfield shares, which have been selling for a few cents, more than doubled in value on strength of Consolidated's latest report.

Tobacco moved narrowly, with the exception of Reynolds' B, which advanced about a point. Such other thinly traded issues as McClellan, United Fruit, Case and Indictment Johnson were pushed up about 1 to 2 points, and a few preferred issues showed wide advances. International Nickel preferred appearing 13 points higher.

Professional activity was largely concentrated in the oils. Traders have been trying to get a public following in these issues on the strength of second quarter earnings, indicating that this is the only major industry now showing decisive improvement over 1931. Declining gasoline consumption, however, has tended to make for some caution on the part of investors. Nevertheless, petroleum issues have advanced substantially in London as well as New York, and brokers report some London buying of our oils, based on the belief that production has been brought under fairly effective control both here and abroad.

Gorguloff on Trial in France

Paris, July 26 (A).—Paul Gorguloff, on trial for the assassination of President Paul Doumer, burst into tears today as Ivan Lazareff, a Russian laborer, sat in the witness stand and called him a member of the old Russian Cheka, the secret police.
Lazareff fell into the hands of the Cheka once, he testified, and Gorguloff was one of his captors. They tortured him, twisting his arms and beating him, burning his skin and bending back his fingers until they broke. He lifted his gnarled hands and the prosecution led him over to the jury box where he showed the swollen knuckles to the jury.
Several times Gorguloff broke in to shout that he had never seen Lazareff in his life.
"You lie!" he exclaimed. "You are in the pay of the Cheka." His attorney hauled the man back into his chair and held him there. Gorguloff pillowed his head in his arms and his shoulders rocked with sobs.

Once he lifted his head and cried. "This is tragic. My own compatriots betray me."

INSURANCE SALESMAN ARRIVED JUST TOO LATE

New York, July 26 (A).—When the insurance man called at Michael Mariconda's home, it was too late. Mariconda, business agent of the Cloak and Shirt Makers' Union, was dead.
He was assassinated last night in the hallway of his home. He must have foreseen the attack, for he had called the insurance man, planning to take out additional insurance.
And there was a loaded pistol strapped to his waist.

N. Y. State Will Use Government Loans

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (A).—New York state is prepared immediately to take advantage of federal emergency highway loans by asking for bids on road work that would cost $4,500,000.
Under the $2,000,000,000 federal relief law, New York's share for emergency highway work would be $6,000,000. This would raise the federal highway aid fund to $11,300,000 for the year and enable the public works department to start projects that it was forced to abandon when the legislature last February cut its appropriations. The total to be spent on highways would be raised to $35,000,000 this year.
The federal relief law provides that emergency contracts, financed under it, must be carried out by next July 1.

Lace at Neckline Aid to the Summer Dress
Touches of lingerie or lace at the neckline give the 1932 look to summer dresses. Bias folds of organdie are one favorite lingerie touch and are used on soft types of dresses as well as tailored ones. Pique gives contrast to the new eyelot cotton dresses.
Starched lace is extremely smart in round Peter Pan collars coming in a big bow in front and are most effective on dark-colored sheer dresses. Also smart on the dark dress is the wide, double, circular collar of organdie. And just a large white organdie flower is a fine thought for the print dress.

"Speakeasy" Life And a Southern Belle

Monday night on the stage of the Elverhøj at Milton there was unfolded the crowning effort of its season—a remarkably fine production of that play which ran so successfully in New York a few seasons ago, Preston Sturges' "Strictly Dishonorable". It is very pleasant to report that this presentation is from every viewpoint a fine, artistic, finished product. The play is interesting, moving, and most of the time hilariously funny. The settings are inspired, the direction is fluent and finished, and, above all, the acting is a joy to behold.

"Strictly Dishonorable" tells the story of a sweet young thing from Yokum, Mississippi, who finds herself in a charming New York speakeasy, accompanied by a somewhat overbearing and unpleasant young man whom she is engaged to be married. The speakeasy in question is in reality no different from a great many others which are to be found in the "roaring forties", but to the young lady who has never been away from her sleepy Southern home this place where one can purchase bad liquor for good money is the epitome of charm, interest and romance. And the greatest of these is romance, because atop this particular speakeasy there are several furnished apartments, in one of which resides Count De Ruvo, darling of the Metropolitan Opera stage whose stage name of Tino Carafa is known and loved by countless thousands, most of whom are women.

Of course the count doesn't spend much of his time in his apartment—not nearly as much as he does in the more congenial surroundings downstairs. There it is that the young lady breathlessly makes his acquaintance. There it is also that the blustering young bridegroom-to-be completely loses his temper, and there it is also that he leaves her this particular midnight, leaves her in the company of the count, a bibulous old judge, and lovable old Tomaso, the proprietor of the "speak". It being midnight, however, the young lady must find a place to sleep, and so the playwright has arranged it that she accepts the count's invitation to spend the night as his honored guest. It must be mentioned to make the situation entirely clear that the count seems not to have always been a very well-behaved boy in the past. It must also be mentioned that our young lady rapidly falls madly in love with him—and beyond this it is unfair to divulge anything which will detract from the playgoer's enjoyment of the delightful humor and ingenious situations which follow.

First acting honors must be awarded Emily Lowry, the new leading lady of the troupe who has just come from Sunny California and seems to be headed surely for greater and greater achievements. She seems to have won her way with a bang into the hearts of the audience. Her acting is indeed a joy to behold, and she extracts from the character of Isabelle every ounce of value that is in it.

Hunter Gardner, who has proved his accomplishments in earlier plays at Milton, gives an excellent performance as the romantic singer.

An excellent evening of character acting is furnished by Robert Sidney, who plays Tomaso.

Robert Le Sueur is just right as Judge Dempsey, and Austin Coghlan gives a beautifully humorous interpretation of Mulligan, the cop on beat, who almost interferes with love's young dream. Jack Daniels plays the nasty bridegroom so artistically as to get himself thoroughly disliked by the audience, and Joseph Julian is convincing as the indispensable door-keeper.

UNION CENTER
Union Center, July 26—Mr. and Mrs. A. Kableus had several guests from New York over the week-end. Vera Mackey of Kingston spent the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Palen of Hurley called on Mrs. Jennie Terpening Sunday.

Do you allow your children on the road? If you do you caution them about the danger of automobiles?—Sunday afternoon a bold little boy of five years deliberately stepped from the side of the road into the path of a car when it was less than twenty feet distant. The driver immediately applied the brakes and the child was not struck. If the driver had been going at a faster rate of speed the consequences would have been serious. Is the driver always to blame?

Guests at Mountain View Farm, Mrs. B. Costa, proprietor, are Mr. and Mrs. Kircher and grandson and Irene Voight, Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Blecker, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Hupp Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Hupp Jr. and Charles Will, all of Long Island; Mr. and Mrs. Stehler, daughter and son of New Jersey, and Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Skippy of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Jennie Terpening spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Palen of Esopus.

Mrs. A. Van Etten called on Mrs. Jennie Terpening one day last week.

VASSAR COLLEGE STUDENT MISSING FROM HER HOME

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—Miss Fannie Turnbull, 19, a Vassar College student, today was reported missing from her fashionable Lake Forest home. She left a note addressed to her family, in which she said: "I can't stand it any longer—feeling that I am a burden on you. I know you will forgive me for taking the car. Please don't try to follow me. I am going away where you will never find me."

Miss Turnbull is the daughter of Henry K. Turnbull, a real estate dealer.

DIED

In Memoriam
In sad and loving memory of my dear daughter and sister, Lena V. Allen, who departed this life one year ago today, July 26, 1931. Beautifully the flowers are blooming on a sad and lonely grave. Lies the one we love so dearly. Whom we tried but could not save. That precious one from us was taken. Though we know it was God's will. A place is vacant in our home. That never can be filled. A year has passed, but oh, how we miss her. Friends may think the wound has healed. But little do they know the sadness which lies within our hearts concealed.

Signed,
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband and father, Fred C. Ackley, who died July 26, 1928. More and more each day I miss him. Friends may think the wound is healed. But they little know the sorrow that lies within my heart concealed. (Signed),

Lavish Revue at Broadway Theatre

The "International Revue" playing at the Broadway Theatre for the first time in the city, today (Monday) opened successfully Monday when the cast of 10 principals and chorus girls played to large audiences at all of the performances.

One of the most lavish productions ever staged in Kingston in the theatre, presented by the Broadway Theatre. The show has one of the largest wardrobes ever prepared behind the scenes at the Broadway and the same time for the show. There are approximately 100 costumes with the most elaborate scenery ever hung at the local theatre.

In the cast of the production are some veteran musical comedy actors, some of whom played in the past. Elmer Gandy and Ben McLean, comedians with the Marcus show, are two of the performers with bygone experiences in this city. They were here 10 years ago before going on the road to play some of the leading theatres in the larger cities of the United States. Those who attended the theatricals at the old Kingston Opera House may recall the two.

Besides these two celebrities, the "International Revue" also has a number of other stars and an array of beauties. In the supporting cast, the same time for the show. There are approximately 100 costumes with the most elaborate scenery ever hung at the local theatre.

The revue plays three shows a day—2:30, 6:45 and 9 p. m. Besides the stage feature "Beauty and the Beast" is being screened. For the last half of the week, starting Thursday, "Scandals of 1932" will be put on by the Marcus troupe and the cinema will be "White Paris Steps," starring Victor McLaglen.

Accompanying the show in the pit at the Broadway is the regular ensemble of musicians employed at the theatre under the direction of Jacob Mollott. They are Harry Malsheider, pianist; Charles Weed, bass; John P. Erns, saxophonist; Albert Rosal, cornetist and Howard Smith, drummer.

Senator Pittman Visits Roosevelt

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—The doors of the Roosevelt council chamber which have admitted this month a steady parade of leaders in state, national and international thought, swung open again today for Senator Key Pittman of Nevada.

The Senator from Tonopah, one of the Marshalls in the 1928 Smith campaign, brought Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt tidings of his presidential campaign in Nevada and her neighboring western states. The Governor's friends thought Pittman also would bring an urgent invitation to the candidate to push his speaking tour into the state of silver and gold mines. This would be in line with a constantly growing demand upon Mr. Roosevelt not to miss any sections of the nation where party supporters believe his personal appearance might swing the tide.

Although sparsely populated, Nevada has only three electoral votes. It is considered representative by the Roosevelt managers of smaller states where the vote is fairly divided. Nevada cast 18,300 votes for Hoover and 14,000 for Smith. Senator Pittman had been expected at the Governor's Hyde Park estate last Sunday but was unable to be there. He telephoned later that he would be here today.

News of the Day In Wall Street

New York, July 26 (AP)—Increased business on the stock exchange has brought the largest volume since the new federal taxes on stock and bond transfers became effective about a month ago. Wall Street had feared the new levies would reduce trading to an unprofitable level for the brokers and for the government itself, but this view has been modified considerably with the expanded turnover and rising prices. Some of the most notable recoveries in the stock market since the turn in trend have been in preferred stocks. Senior shares in practically every group have participated in this rebound, and advances in some cases have run to as much as 15 to 30 per cent. Since this recovery has been coincident with the substantial rally in the bond market, investment dealers here it signified some recovery of confidence in underlying market conditions.

LEHMAN WILL TAKE OVER ROOSEVELT DUTIES

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Lieutenant Governor Herbert L. Lehman will actively take over one of the duties of Governor Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, tomorrow when he starts out on the first of the annual inspection trips of the state.

The three-day swing across southern and western New York also will establish a personal contact between Colonel Lehman, prominently mentioned for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and voters of the areas visited. While it was expected Lehman might have some formal announcement of his candidacy during the trip, his friends said such statement would not be forthcoming at this time. This belief arose out of the fact he was to attend dinners given by two Democratic county organizations during his trip.

Investigate Death.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Police of this county today began an investigation into the death of Aaron Nathanson, 65, Brooklyn paper and wine merchant. He was found dead in a rooming house. Preliminary examination indicated death was caused by natural causes. Nathanson's home was at Passaic, N. J., and his Brooklyn offices were at 511 Jerome avenue.

Restrain Ackermans From Closing Road

and that it was located as a town road and not as a highway. The town wanted the road and that it was not a highway.

Transported Powder.

Judge Clearwater stated that the electric corporation was a party defendant in order of the court and that the company contended that the road was a public one. He stated that the use of this route had been established many years ago as far back as when the Smith & Rand powder plant was located on the site of the present Sturgeon Pool reservoir and that this road was used in the War days to transport powder.

Defendant Explains.

Mr. Flanagan for the defendant Ackerman explained that there had been a time when the valley had been more industrial activity than now. There had been a powder plant in the valley, all that there remained today was farm lands and the power house of the electric company which is on the west side of the Walkkill. The lands were changed somewhat in character by the construction of the Sturgeon Pool dam, the east end of which is in the town of Esopus and the west end in Rosendale. He said the defendants expected to show that the power house was constructed on lands formerly owned by Mollenhauer and conveyed by them to the company. The Mollenhauer property is a part of the former Webster property and he stated that it would be shown that this road in question did not exist back in the days of 1860 and thereafter as referred to by Judge Clearwater and Mr. Cook.

The Webster farm road was from the Rock Lock road as it now exists and did in 1860. The entrance to the property now owned by Mollenhauer he said was across the Webster lands across a ford in the creek and access was from the Rock Lock road which exists today. This ford over to the Rock Lock road was used and recognized by Mollenhauer for some time after he became owner of the lands according to counsel. Then in order to get a shorter means of reaching Rosendale he sought access over the Ackerman lands over the road now in question. This cut down the distance to Rosendale by some two to four miles.

Claims Ford Is Right of Way

Mr. Flanagan said the road over the Ackerman land was to gain a short way to Rosendale but it was not a right of way or a public road. The right of way of the Mollenhauer lands is and has been by way of the ford. He said that when the Sturgeon Pool dam was being erected the contractor hauled material over the Ackerman lands and agreed to pay contentions of defendant Ackerman for such use. At that time it is the contention of the electric corporation that the road was not a public way and they agreed to pay her compensation for use of the road. At that time he alleges gates were removed to permit heavy machinery going over the land. Two swing gates were removed from the Ackerman property and still remain where they were dropped at that time.

The Mollenhauer property was never a part of the present Ackerman land and therefore it is alleged that in no way can it be charged that a means of outlet must be granted over the Ackerman land. At this point it was stated by plaintiff that there was no such contention but that it was claimed the road is a public road.

Disputes Clearwater

Mr. Flanagan stated that in 1930 and 1931 the town superintendent attempted to improve the road at the instigation of plaintiff and finally abandoned the attempt. So far as the Smith & Rand powder mill using the road was concerned he said they never used the present road. Mr. Flanagan attacked the geography of Judge Clearwater in that respect and stated that the powder company used scows to take its product across the creek for transportation and that if any road was used it was another maze of roads in the locality and not the road now under dispute. The road used in hauling powder to Rosendale was located on another peninsula and the road over which the material taken from the scows was transported by the powder company was the Rock Lock road and the old "Powder Mill" road.

The lower end of the present road he claims was not in existence before the construction of the dam and was laid out for the contractor's use when Sturgeon Pool dam was built. Judge Clearwater denied that the electric light corporation had agreed to or had ever paid for use of the Ackerman road during construction. He said the contractor rather than enter into a dispute may have agreed to pay but when the company learned of the matter and informed the contractor the electric corporation did not pay and has never paid for use of the road which it is contended is a public road.

A map was identified and placed in evidence showing the location of the properties involved. A recess was taken at 12:30 until 2 o'clock.

Everybody Knows that the Freeman Cost-a-Word Ad. Brings Quick Results. Try Them!

Assured Short: Boasting is poor. Anyone can put prices on it. It takes brains to make a better product. All must respect those who respect themselves. It's the chicken wings that make the boarding house unpopular. Wise men learn from fools, but fools never learn from wise men. Often we hate people not for what they are, but for what we are. Expect no miracles—trust your common sense. No man with a poor memory has any business becoming a liar. Baseball isn't the only game in which the squeeze play is worked. Don't sing your own praises if you are looking for an encore. Some after-dinner speakers have never learned the valuable lesson of knowing when to stop. The high heel was thought of by a woman who was kissed on the forehead. Nothing is uglier than an ugly face. Why did David say that all men are liars? He never ran for any office. The biggest fool is the man who has never made a fool of himself. Good will is the disposition of the pleased customer to return to the place where he has been well treated. It's not variety, but marriage, that's the spice of life. Never break your silence unless you have something better than silence to say.

New Hubby—What are these? Jugs Bride—Biscuits. I made them myself. New Hubby—All right, you eat them yourself. Banter—The way for you to straighten out your financial difficulties is to try to live within your means from now on. Business Man—Within our means? Certainly Not! We may be poor, but we're not so badly off as that.

The reason most parents are so patient with school teachers is that they don't know what to do with the youngsters themselves. Blotto—Shay, can you tell me where Main street is? Omar—You're standing on it. Blotto—No wonder I couldn't find the blamed thing. Guet—Look here waiter! How long must I wait for the half portion of duck I ordered. Waker—Till somebody orders the other half. We can't go out and kill half a duck.

The chef that made cold tomato juice popular as an appetizer got away with something. He didn't have a warm it up. Stebbins—Did you hear about Willard, the bank cashier, stealing fifty thousand and running away with his friends sister? Perkins—Good Heavens! Who'll teach his Sunday School class tomorrow? It's perhaps not that men worry too much. But so many of them do their worrying over the wrong things.

Housewife (to beggar at door)—I could give you some of my husband's old clothes, but they need a little patching. Beggar—That doesn't matter; I can wait while it's done. A good many boys will have to give up the idea of getting married for a while. They can't afford it now that the girl have had a cut in salary.

Sammy (as he danced in from school)—Hurrah, Ma! At last I got 100 in my studies! Mother—Fine! What study did you get 100 in? Sammy—I said "studies", not "study", sixty in readin' and forty in spellin'.

People get used to what they cannot help more quickly than they think they are going to. "Go after business".....sounds like good advice until you remember where business has gone.

The old time girl had to take off a lot of things before she went to bed, but her complexion wasn't one of them. A lipstick is merely something that gives a new flavor to an old pastime.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press
Colby, Kas.—Marion Talley, farmerette, says the wheat crop is "wonderful" but the price "disgusting." Miss Talley, who really is Mrs. Michael Hachhausen, besides farming, is also quite a singer.

Louisville—A neighbor of the Craft family thinks the practicing of two boys on a drum and saxophone respectively is, to put it in plain language, a nuisance. Judge Ruthenberg, no saxophones or drum enthusiasts himself, ordered William Craft, 13, and James Craft, 12, to confine the confusion to half an hour each day.

New Orleans—The gasoline stations have hung out the "welcome" sign to the old grey mare and her brothers and sisters. Horse drivers are invited to drive in and let their thirsty animals fill up. It is a gesture of hospitality. Besides, the horses don't live forever, and their owners may be buying automobiles some day.

Los Angeles—Sir Harold Bowden, chairman of the English Olympics Committee has a good word to say for Hollywood movies. They are so popular with Britshers, he said, that they have "substantially reduced the consumption of liquor."

Bonner Springs, Kas.—Jason Penrod is a regular guy. He figured his 900-bushel potato crop wouldn't bring enough money to pay for harvesting it, so he ploughed out the crop and invited the needy to "come and get them." They came—the needy—in (well! well!) motor cars.

New York—Miss Emilia Steinacher has an odd job. She specializes in canaries' diseases. She says they have the gout just like elderly gentlemen. And it is surprising how susceptible the birds are to pneumonia.

OUR DAILY PATTERN

A Pretty Frock for Many Occasions

7551. Lawn in blue and white dots on a white background was chosen for this model. The bertha and belt are of white organdy with a plaited frill of the lawn on the bertha. Printed or plain chiffon in monotone would also be nice for this little frock. Or one could have two colors of lawn or organdy—the flare insets and collar of white and the dress of pink or green, with the tie belt of green ribbon.

Designed in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 will require 2 1/2 yards of 29 inch or wider printed material and 1/2 yard of contrasting material if made as shown in the large view. The tie belt of ribbon requires 2 1/2 yards. To make in monotone, will require 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch material. To finish the bertha with plaited or gathered edging of lace or other material will require 2 1/4 yards. If made of self material cut a strip 1 1/2 inch wide and 2 1/4 yards long, hem at one long edge and gather at the other.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

IRREGULARITY IS AIM OF FASHION

Designers Get Away From Cut
and Dried Effects.

The straight line is by no means the shortest cut to chic on smart summer evening gowns. Decolletes are not the cut and dried affairs they once were. Irregularity is the aim of the smart designers as far as better back openings are concerned. One of them is showing a late development which is definitely one-sided and boasts but one lone shoulder strap, on the right, the bodice being cut so that it is firmly held in place.

Another new back cut starts bravely to be a perfect square but something happens to it on the left side where it joins hands with the bodice and ends by making a figure never found in plain or solid geometry.

Helene Hubert puts a crisscross decollete on a black crepe de chene gown.

A charming little wrapped bodice begins with a section of right side into the slim armhole of which the right arm slips. As for the rest of the bodice, it is a matter of the successful wrapping and drawing around of long ends of lively evening fabric which finally finish in a knotted sash.

PLAID LINEN By CHENE NICHOLAS

Plaids are in the limelight. Plaid organdie and plaid linen, both the heavy and the sheer handkerchief weave, are among the newest materials for midsummer wear. The very attractive frock which this well-dressed little girl is wearing is made of plaid linen in a design of yellow deep orange and white. A wide band of orange linen is used, featuring a contrast of plain and printed in answer to the call for combinations of plain and gay print. The little round turnover collar and the scalloped panel up the front with its many pearl buttons and an effective touch. The hat is of yellow all-over stitched linen. Orange sandals and white socks complete this winsome color scheme.

STYLE NOTES

Wide-brimmed pastel felts top summer costumes.

Butterfly shoulder effects are achieved with pleated ruffles, ostrich trims and bands of flowers.

Designers are making swim costumes of openwork elastic and two-way-stretch wool.

Fashion is broadcasting the message of plaid as newest and smartest in summer prints.

For town wear the sheer costume in a smart street color with three-quarter length is first choice.

It's good style to wear a bright print blouse and scarf with the white jacket suit.

Dark Dress With Touch of White Big Success

Paris has never yet found any more all-round success than the dark dress, marked with touches of white. White plique collars, white taffeta scarfs, white satin hats and white gloves continue to hold forth in the best of company, despite any other color propaganda that the French dressmakers may take up.

This year's version of the dark-with-white dress has its own 1932 idiosyncrasy: it has developed certain new mannerisms in the way the two contrasts are combined. For example, many coats, made without collars, are designed to be worn with dresses whose white collars appear outside the coat. Often there are white cuffs with no collar, or white collar without cuffs.

Skirts Achieve Come Back in Sports Styles

Skirts score a come-back triumph in sports wear this season. Dresses and wrap-around frocks have replaced pajamas for all sports occasions and bathing dresses are favored over one-piece affairs. Even when the one-piece knitted swim suit is worn there is an accompanying skirt to tie around the waist when basking.

World's Dark Ages

The period of the dark ages began with the irruption of the barbaric tribes of Europe in the latter part of the Fifth century and extended to the Italian Renaissance in the Thirteenth century. It was characterized by the decay of classical civilization.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Antibes Gives Us Its Shirt

New York—Pity the poor French fisherman, who has the shirt taken right off his back. First he lost his beret to the hordes of fashionables who descended on Biarritz. Now he has lost his shirt, at Antibes. That picturesque striped cotton-jersey shirt you see smart girls wearing was once his, though slightly modified.

One cannot fail to be impressed, this summer, by the fact that fashion seems to be insistent on clothes being appropriate for the occasion. For beach wear, for instance, the trend is entirely toward the fisherman's garb—glorified, of course, but of a workmanlike character that seems appropriate for knocking about near the water. Antibes shirts are everywhere, particularly at the seashore. These are fashioned of linen mesh, cotton or wool. The fabric is immaterial, the chief point being that it is smart to be mannish on the beach, where one encounters slacks and shorts saloons as well as the pajama in one form or another.

Terry-cloth pajamas are cozy looking when the breezes blow. The smartest are white—an observation one might make of all costumes, not forgetting the swim suit, which, having run the gamut of pastels, is now snowy white, trimmed with color if one likes, or all white. Flesh-colored suits are quite as startling, maybe more so. Canary-yellow ones are extraordinary popular. In fact, the darker colors are the exception on any beach this summer.

Tailored beach clothes are infinitely more fitting than the more elaborate mode of yesterday. The musical-comedy beach costume is passé—for which most of us give three rousing cheers.

Coarse-knitted suits, many widely ribbed, are worn by the better-dressed bathers, and bear indisputable evidence of being new. Cotton suits are also among this year's preferences, drills and seersuckers being approved fabrics, and stripes being prime favorites.

THIS SAILOR IS "DARLING"

A complete costume for the girl who is nautically inclined combines a shirt of blue-and-white striped cotton jersey with white terry-cloth pajamas and beret. The beret has a blue button trim of terry-cloth.

Hair Sculpture the Latest Fad

Paris—Antoine, the hairdresser, has once more proved himself an inventive and stimulating artist in his latest creations, first displayed at an evening reception in his own modernistic apartment. They are masterpieces of hair sculpture, consisting of evening coiffures for ordinary fashionable wear and other more original ones especially designed for actresses.

The hair is dressed, then painted any color with a special waxlike cosmetic which gives it either a dull or a shiny lacquer finish. The coiffures, which can be worked out on the client's own hair, are composed of flat ringlets keeping the head small. In this manner, M. Antoine dressed some of his smart clients' hair for the recent white ball held in Paris, painting the coiffures white. Some of these evening coiffures have flat ringlets against the nape of the neck in a low point, which seem well fitted to accompany low decolletes.

Hats and Collars Have Much in Common

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

As collars go up and hats come forward, it becomes increasingly necessary to have them in harmony. Fashion now approves the fabric of one repeated in the other. Linen, above.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Scarfs and capotes are very important in the evening, and although the majority are big enough to belong in the wrap class, many are more properly neckwear.

Short gloves with ruffles just above the wrist are being seen at evening functions, as well as very long classic plain gloves of suede or kid.

Evening jewelry worn this season is 75 per cent. precious or imitation of precious stones, notably pearls and diamonds. Prudent earrings have increased in vogue.

English-Irish Tariff War Opens

Dublin, Irish Free State, July 26 (AP).—The Anglo-Irish trade war began officially today, but there were rumors of another attempt to reopen negotiations to settle it.

The Free State government levied its prohibitive schedule of duties against British imports last night by publishing the list embraced in the new special tariff bill.

The rumors of fresh negotiations resulted from the departure of Hugo Flynn, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of finance, for London last night. The government said Flynn was on "an important government mission."

South American Nations Fighting For Jungle

Buenos Aires, (P).—Backwoods fighting in the Gran Chaco, the Manabera of South America, where Bolivia and Paraguay have clashed again over disputed boundaries, caused no great surprise in this capital.

Months ago it was predicted that when the effects of the rainy season had worn off, the numerous outposts maintained in that jungle wilderness would be in conflict as the two governments sought to push forward into the no man's land that has been built up there.

The trouble goes back to Spanish colonial days but it has become acute only since the growth of the republics and the pressure of economic conditions have turned attention to the great natural resources of the region. Both Bolivia and Paraguay claim the whole of the Chaco as between the Paraguay and Pilcomayo rivers. Actually the territory is about equally divided now as for as physical occupation goes.

The gist of the whole quarrel is the wide and deep Paraguay river, navigable right up to the point where it debouches from Brazil. Bolivia has needed free access to that great stream as an outlet to the Atlantic ever since Chile drove her back from the Pacific many years ago and left her landlocked.

But her approach has thus far been effectually blocked by the Paraguayans who have put settlements west of the river through almost the entire length of the Chaco. Out beyond these settlements is a thick line of Paraguayan military posts.

So the Bolivians have been pushing down lines parallel more with the Pilcomayo river, although that stream can scarcely be considered navigable. The Bolivian pressure appears lately to have been exerted chiefly

The pear-shaped patch on the map constitutes the Gran Chaco, claimed by both Paraguay and Bolivia. The fort where the latest clash occurred is shown within a square in the white strip which marks where the army outposts of the two nations overlap.

In a southerly direction. The location indicates this. This fort was taken of the post styled Fort Mariscal scribed by Bolivia as "attacked" in Santa Cruz by Bolivia and Fort mid-July while Paraguay announced Carlos Antonio Lopez by Paraguay, its "recapture" a few days later.

Will Test Morgan's Theory Of Dividends

New York, July 26 (P).—Memories of the late J. Pierpont Morgan were invoked today while the fate of the dividend rate of United States Steel Corp. preferred stock hung in balance.

The elder Morgan who modeled the steel corporation and set it up in February of 1901 was a consistent foe of all directors who ever suggested omitting the regular dividend of $1.75 a share, payable every three months, on the company's preferred stock. Early in the 1900's, the company's earnings were sometimes lean and on these occasions some directors cautioned omission. But Morgan hammered his table in emphatic opposition. At no time was it ever passed.

Some of the company's present directors, who faced today the job of determining whether the rate should be maintained, were reported to be in favor of omission because the steel business has been doing poorly. In the first quarter the steel corporation had a deficit of $13,219,000 even before dividends came up for consideration. In 1931 the company only earned $3.62 a share on its preferred, or approximately half of its $7 annual requirement on its outstanding $350,281,100 of preferred stock. Nevertheless, the regular payments were made.

Those directors who favored continuing the company's record of never missing a payment on the preferred were in position to argue strongly from the standpoint of economy and efficiency. They noted that the great company has reduced its overhead and operating costs—first, by retiring all of its bonds on the crest of the bull market, thus eliminating fixed interest charges for the parent company; second, by modernizing its plants; and, third, by combining its personnel and replacing many veterans with younger and more vigorous men.

In addition, the corporation cut wages twice, the latest reduction of 15 per cent having gone into effect last May 16.

Almost equally as powerful a weapon in their hands was the strong evidence that present production of steel is far below actual normal requirements, even in depressed times. Estimated per capita production this year is below 300 pounds, a figure not reached since before 1900, an era when a score of important industries which today consume steel by the millions of tons were in their infancy.

Detroit's Depression Restaurant

THE Penny Pantry of Detroit, a philanthropic restaurant venture where a full meal is served for ten cents or less, is proving its popularity by serving thousands every day. Except for a few meat items, which are two cents, everything on the menu, which includes bread, vegetables, coffee, etc., sells for one cent. Backers of the venture, refusing to divulge their names, say the enterprise is entirely non-profit taking. They want to feed the needy without attaching the stigma of charity.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

SIMPLE TRICKS WITH MATCH STICKS

Here are two simple match tricks with which to amuse and puzzle the kiddies:

No. 1—Crack the center of four matches and place them together in a saucer so they form a cross, as shown above. Then tell little Johnny or Mary that you will drop water on the cross and change it into a star. The trick is done by dropping a little water in the center where the cracked parts of the matches come together, and this will cause them to spread apart and form a four-cornered star.

No. 2—Take the same cracked matches and again form them into a cross. Then ask the youngsters to move one match and make a square. They will likely think the whole arrangement is to be changed, but if they pay attention to what you say, they will turn over one match and form one-fourth of the cross into a square.

TRIP TO THE OLYMPICS — CAMERA GIVES PREVIEW OF SPECTACLE

A trip to the Olympics without actually journeying to Los Angeles—above photographs give graphic impression of the multitudinous activities and nationalities which will be seen in the international carnival of sports, July 30 to August 14. The legendary torch of the games, to burn day and night, is shown beckoning the world's athletic great to new records. Aki Järvinen (left), the Finn, is responding. He is pictured at the hurdles, one of the events in the decathlon in which he has bettered the universal mark. Directly to the right of the torch are Liout, Arne Franke, crack member of the Swedish equestrian team, directing his mount over a barrier, and Fernand and Marcel Vander-notte, French "brother act" in the two-oar sculls. The crafty looking little fellow in the fighting pose is Felipe Trillo, who journeyed up from the Argentine to swap a few left hooks. Down into the water with a perfect back dive goes Kazuo Kobayashi, Japanese spring board artist. Bill Carr of Penn., principal U. S. hope in the 400-meters, is hitting the tape after a record breaking run in his specialty. The fellow in the classical pose with the discus is John Anderson, of the New York A. C. Uncle Sam's No. 1 man in the event. Mouth open, laboring hard.

Boy Charlton, 200-pound Australian swimming star, is taking a turn in high gear. Last photo might be termed "Spirit of the Olympics." It reveals Miss Alda Wilson, Canadian 80-meter hurdler, taking the Olympic oath of sportsmanship.

Wright-Sullivan Star Bout a Draw At the Legion Show

Marlborough Heavyweight Falls to Dethrone Poughkeepsie Negro Before Crowd of 700—Plenty of Action in Preliminary Bouts—Next Card at Outdoor Arena on August 5.

The outdoor amateur boxing season was auspiciously opened at the new arena of the American Legion near its Post home on West O'Reilly street, Monday night, when approximately 700 fans, says official checkers, turned out to see a stellar card of scraps, all of which contained plenty of action except the feature, which was tamer than any match on the bill.

In the headliner Jack Jerry Wright of Poughkeepsie defended his heavyweight title of the Amateur Federation of Sports Clubs of America against Jack Sullivan, Marlborough slugger, and was successful in retaining it by virtue of a draw.

Wright proceeded to force the milling at the outset, sending over a hard right to the solar plexus that made Sullivan wince. But the shifty negro, lacking some of the boxing technique displayed heretofore, slowed down after the opening round and it was the opinion of experts at the ringside that the Southern Ulster had an edge in the second, third and fourth frames. Wright, however, assumed the lead again in the fifth and sixth rounds, evening up with Sullivan for his spurs in the checkers that he was credited with winning.

Weights were Wright 179, Sullivan 178.

Emerson Defeats Turck.
In the six round match preceding the star bout, Buddy Emerson, of St. Remy, weighing 129, scored a technical knockout over Joe Turck of Kingston, who tipped the beam at 125½. Emerson started his attack with a fusillade of rights soon after the opening gong and Turck withered under the strain. He did not go down though and did his best until Referee Bill Singer decided to stop the match in the sixth round, after the two had been battling for one minute and 38 seconds of the frame.

Carpino Victorious.
The other six rounder on the bill was one of the greatest slugfests ever presented since the inception of amateur bouts in Kingston. Charlie Carpino of this city made up for a defeat he suffered last winter by pummeling Johnny Law of Cementon into submission during their encounter, which ended with the vanquished batter being completely worn down, covered with blood and displaying two black eyes, the swelling of which likely prevented him from seeing as well today as he did before the scrap. Probably Law will look for another match with Carpino to gain revenge. The weights were 172 for Carpino and 175 for Law.

Preliminary Results.

There were four bouts of four rounds each which resulted as follows:

"Duke" Wade of Kingston, 152, knocked out "Wild Bill" Schaffer of Cementon, 153, in 1:44 of the first round.

Max Kohler of Germany, 135, outpointed Max Schuler of Poughkeepsie, 137, four rounds.

"Kid" Brown of Kingston, 130, knocked out Eddie Ribner, Marlborough, 127, in 1:38 of the third round.

At Melville, Kingston, 135, and Billy Martin, Poughkeepsie, 136, fought four rounds to a draw.

Officials were Jack Doley and George Brown, Judges: Bill Singer, referee and Samuel J. Ribner, announcer.

Tony Rodriguez, formerly of the National Guard, was introduced from the ring as the opponent of Dan Rosen at the card of scraps at the Coney Island Stadium on Friday night, August 5.

Next Bout on August 5
August 5 is also the date of the next card of bouts at the outdoor arena here under the auspices of the

Schaaf Winner Over Uzcudun

New York, July 26 (AP).—Ernie Schaaf, the man who would like to fight his part-owner and chief second, Jack Sharkey, for the heavyweight title, today had taken one short, faltering step in that direction.

By belting out a 15-round decision over the aging Basque, Paulino Uzcudun, in Madison Square Garden's big bowl last night, the Boston blonde survived the first round of the Garden's heralded elimination tournament.

But it was a subject of debate with the crowd of 6,000 whether Schaaf had proved anything except, possibly, that he is not a worse fighter than Paulino. The audience voted, informally, to eliminate both of them.

Walker Wins by Kayo in Minute

Newark, N. J., July 26 (AP).—A solid right to the jaw a minute after the opening bell gave Mickey Walker a one-round knockout over Salvatore Ruggirello at Dreamland Park last night, but he must argue for his pay before the state athletic commission today.

Officials of the commission ordered the purses of both principals held up after the quick kayo.

Pirates Promising.

Over in the National League, where the Pittsburgh Pirates threaten to run away from the field, there is an entirely different situation. If George Gibson does drive his youngsters under the wire first, there is no good reason why they should not stay up there a couple more years.

With the exception of Pie Traynor at third base and the Waners boys in the outfield, the Pirate lineup fairly sparkles with youth. And nobody has yet claimed that Traynor or either of the Waners is slipping.

"Mule" Haas Stars.

One of the veterans of the Athletics' championship machine, George (Mule) Haas, came back to grasp the headlines in the only game played yesterday in either league. His home run in the last of the ninth off Lefty Gomez with one on gave the Athletics an 8 to 7 victory over the Yankees. It was Gomez's misfortune to lose his fifth game of the year by pitching to only two batters.

Detroit was leading St. Louis, 10 to 4, when rain halted the only other scheduled game after four and a fraction frames.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Even if they coast on through the American League title, as they very well can do by playing something like .500 baseball, it is doubtful the Yankees will stay up there longer than one term.

The Ruppert rifles are not the same type of club they were back in the halcyon days of Waite Hoyt, the "school boy wonder," and the old "murderers' row" that made the days pleasant for the late Miller Huggins.

True, many of that famous crowd still are around, and they are doing Yeoman work in the Yanks' current drive. But no longer make up a team that is young and full of fire and just reaching its peak. Rather, they resemble a group of oldsters who have known the heights and are determined to scale them once more before calling it a career.

Fellows like Ruth, Combs, Lazzeri and little Joe Sewell cannot be expected to star much longer, and Manager Joe McCarthy probably will have to do much revamping next season. He will have plenty to build from, a fine nucleus in Gomez, Allen, Dickey, Gehrig, Crosetti, Chapman and the rest, but history proves it takes more than one year to build a championship club.

Indians Look Good.

With the Philadelphia Athletics getting no better fast, several of their greatest stars definitely past their prime, the experts are looking elsewhere for the next young club that will flare up and take the spotlight in the junior circuit.

The Cleveland Indians, a young, courageous outfit that just are realizing their strength, look like the best bet at the moment, with Detroit a possibility. The Washington Senators, veterans for the most part, apparently have passed up their chance.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Two giants of Olympic athletic fame, 20 years ago, were again in competition, even though strictly in the background, at Palo Alto as youthful stars of a new generation performed startling feats in the final American track and field tryouts.

One was Alma W. Richards, the Utah boy who won the world's high jumping championship at Stockholm in 1912. The other was white-haired Pat McDonald, New York police lieutenant, who captured the Olympic shotput in the same games.

Both were at Stanford to compete in the 56-pound weight throw, time-honored event for the brawny ones in National A. A. U. championship competition, although it no longer has any Olympic equivalent and hasn't had since 1920, when McDonald won it at Antwerp.

Richards is now around 45, McDonald nearer 55, but they are still remarkable physical specimens, bulking large even in a group of such young stalwarts as Sexton, Brix, Anderson and Jessup.

Real Upsets.

"You talk about upsets," remarked Richards. "We had three of them on our Olympic team in 1912 that bowled all the deponents over."

"When we went over to Sweden, the three Americans considered the most certain winners were Howard Drew in the 100 meters, George Horine, world's record-holder, in the high jump, and Ralph Rose, the old Michigan star and also a world's record-holder, in the shotput.

"Yet all three of them were beaten by members of their own team. I was lucky enough to take the high jump, after a great tumble, and McDonald out-tossed Rose in another exciting contest. As I recall it, Pat got out his winning throw of more than 50 feet on his last attempt. Drew didn't come up to expected form and Ralph Craig of Michigan ran off with both sprints."

Climate Percentage.

"I wish I could have had this California climate to work in when I was in college athletics," added Richards, who went all the way from Utah to Cornell University to add to his fame as an all-around performer.

"Out here, these fellows can plan their outdoor campaign and carry it out, without interruption, from the first of the year. Back in Ithaca, we were lucky in my day if we were able to get in a half-dozen outdoor workouts prior to the Penn Relays. "To me that's the only real difference between the east and west so far as track and field performance are concerned."

Check on Gate Crashers

Anxious to make every dollar count, the association is taking added precautions this year to permit none of the pay customers to slip by the gates. One of the pedestrian paths has been blocked off and a wire fence erected. Patrons will be checked twice as they enter.

Thursday and Saturday of this week the steeplechase course will be open for schooling.

Prominent Horses

Among the 500 horses here now are those of the Greentree stables, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, and the Sagamore, Glen Riddle, Seigler and Linton stables. Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney have their racers at the Nelson Avenue stables. Joseph E. Widner and Mrs. Ambrose Clark also have their horses at the Spa.

George Bull, president of the association, has been in Saratoga for some time. Victor Schaumburg, racing secretary, was due to open his office today.

All Stars To Meet Royal Giants At The Fair Grounds Tonight

The Kingston All Stars and Brooklyn Royal Giants will meet in what is expected to be a fast and well patronized baseball game at the Kingston Fair Grounds this evening, starting at 8:15 o'clock.

It is the intention of the All Stars to play better than ever before in order to hold their own with the colored stars, who although they are among the best in semi-pro ball are not invincible. Sunday, according to the New York American of yesterday, the Royals dropped a doubleheader to the Ridgewood Farmers, losing by scores of 12-6 and 6-3.

Although some are of the opinion that the Royals will walk away with the locals, the home boys might bring a surprise and send the negroes away wishing that they had never risked their reputation against the club of Johnny McCordie and his partner in baseball, John Ashdown, booking manager.

Commenting on the game the readers of the Kingston team said as follows:

"The game is sure to be a honey, and now the only thing is for the baseball fans of Kingston and vicinity to turn out in large numbers and give the players the support they need, and cheer them on. The Kingston All Stars are trying to give the baseball fans some good ball and a chance to see the fast traveling clubs. So it's up to the people to support them."

The lineups of the clubs follow:

Kingston	All Stars
Brown	Merritt
Brooks	Knight
Bye	Glaser
Fernand	Glaser
Bergin	Glaser
Marcell	Glaser
Sammler	Glaser
Creck	Glaser
Austin	Glaser
Redding	Glaser

The left fielder of the Royals, Circus Country Brown by name, is considered one of the outstanding comedians in baseball, besides being a player of considerable ability. Those who witness the game will be in for plenty of laughs when he gets working.

Fins Show Much Promise in Javelin Throw and Decathlon

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer
Los Angeles, July 26 (AP)—Although the chief American entries have surpassed Olympic records in the javelin and world records in the decathlon, the homebreds find themselves in the unfortunate position of being outclassed in each event by the robust sons of Finland.

Two of the surest bats in the Olympic track and field competition, starting next Sunday, are that Achilles Järvinen will outpace his countryman, Paavo Yrjölä, for the decathlon crown and that his younger brother, Matti Järvinen, will win the javelin with a new world record toss.

Järvinen Stars
The Järvinen boys, whose father won the Olympic javelin toss, Greek style, in 1906, appear to have their specialities all wrapped up, barring the biggest kind of an upset.

"Art" Järvinen prefers sprinting to the rigors of the ten-event competition, spread over two days, but he was spurred on to prove himself the world's best decathlete by his father. After being defeated in the 1928 games by Yrjölä, the latter set a world record of 8052 points but "Art" has since accumulated $255.

Bench Best for U. S.
"Jarring Jim" Bausch, the rugged former Kansas University star, is the best decathlete entry the U. S. A. has had since Jim Thorpe. Bausch ran up 8103 points, bettering Yrjölä's listed record, in the final American tryouts.

He finished far ahead of the other two American qualifiers, Wilson (Buster) Charles, the speedy Oneida Indian, and Clyde Coffman, also from Kansas. Bausch is the only one of the trio likely to place in the Olympic final six.

Throws Javelin 240 Feet.
In the javelin, Malcolm Metcalf of Dartmouth, and Kenneth Churchill of San Francisco, both surpassed the Olympic standard with throws of approximately 219 and 230 feet, respectively, in the final tryouts. Lee Bartlett, third qualifier, threw 214 feet.

These distances may be good enough for a point or two but they do not compare with the latest performance of Matti Järvinen, who has been averaging close to 240 feet, or his countryman, Eino Penttilä, who has exceeded the present world mark of 255 feet, held by the Swedish stars, Lundquist. The Finns, with a threat or two mainly from Esthonia, Hungary and Sweden, should dominate the spear-tossing.

Bruck All Stars To Again Play Ridgers

Pete Bruck's All Stars will go to Stone Ridge this evening for their second contest of the baseball season with the team from that village, which contemplates getting even for the 6-4 victory the Bruckmen scored last week in a fast and interesting battle.

"Big Joe" Mahar, Sr., who pitched the Bruck Stars to victory before, will again be on the mound with "Goose" Gorsline, "the village blacksmith," as his battery mate.

The batterymen are in better shape for tonight than they were previous to starting last week's game, their first of the season, and hope to win more decisively.

The Stone Ridge battery will be North, pitching; Cornish, catching. Starting time of the contest is 6:45 o'clock.

Fitzgerald's Panthers Against Morgan's Nine

"The treat of the season," says James Banion Fitzgerald, "is in store for baseball fans of this city Saturday afternoon when I and my Black Panthers oppose Jimmy Morgan's Reapers at the Athletic Field. I just know there will be a crowd on hand and the boys will play like big leaguers."

Fitzgerald, who it is supposed will pitch for the Panthers, would not divulge his lineup and neither would Morgan, but it is expected that the names of the stars on both teams will leak out before game time so fans may have their score cards all filled out for the battle of battles.

TWO GUNS WHITE CALF

Those who think that the day of the Indian is done, and picture him as a pathetic midget, slowly fading into the sunset, should visit the Blackfeet and their chief, Two Guns White Calf.

Here is the most traveled Indian in the world today, and the best known. His father, White Chief, the last Uteel chief of the Blackfeet, was a warm friend of President Roosevelt, and it was during a visit to him in Washington that the Great Spirit summoned him. President Roosevelt sent the body of White Calf back to his people in a private car, with a military escort—honors which the Blackfeet deeply appreciated.

Two Guns did not choose to shine by his father's light. He could have made a wistful figure as the son of the last great chief, living in the glories of the past. But Two Guns is a modern. There is, he finds, a great deal to interest an Indian in the present day, and he intends to see and learn all about it. For the last twenty years, the famous Blackfoot has been enjoying a unique life, for an Indian, and no doubt he will continue to do so.

In 1912, a group of Indians, of which Two Guns was one, went East. The striking appearance of the chief attracted instant attention, and his unusual mental qualities brought him to the fore as a man well worth featuring. The band was quartered in tipis on the roof of a New York hotel, then the highest hotel building in the world, and crowds poured up to see the picturesque folk and their especially picturesque leader, who was as much at home on the skyscraper floor as he was in his own camp by the peaceful lake.

Two Guns was the first Indian to go up in a plane. During this eastern trip, he was taken up in a hydroplane at Dodd's Ferry, on the Hudson. As the spirits of dead and gone Blackfeet watched from their happy hunting grounds in the Land Beyond, were they outraged at his daring? I doubt it; more probably, they nodded their ghostly heads in approval, and said, "He is our own brave son—a true Blackfoot."

Queen Marie of Rumania, during her American visit, stopped to greet Two Guns on his reservation. Surely no more striking picture than this could be imagined: the gracious royal lady and the stately and striking Indian chief, exchanging courtesies to the music of drum-beats, before a background of tipis, war-bonnets, and plume ponies. It is not recorded that Two Guns lacked one whit of the poise of his queenly guest.

September 17, 1927, found this most sophisticated Indian at the White House. The Great White Father, President Coolidge, and the great red chief, Two Guns, met as leaders of their people should meet—ceremonially and with courtesy. Presidents and chiefs have met before, it is true, since the days of Washington, but never before has their meeting been on such equal terms.

There is nothing of the taciturn Indian of legend about Two Guns White Calf. The chief has a ready sense of humor, and enjoys a hearty laugh, even at his own expense. He likes to meet people, and to be in large gatherings, and he naturally dominates any crowd.

Unusual in his character as Two Guns is, in appearance he is the typical Indian. His head reminds one of a buffalo's. His strikingly fine physique, garbed in the picturesque clothing of his tribe, is an eye-filling sight. His good-nature does not disguise the strength of character which one feels is his chief attribute.

Examine a buffalo nickel, and compare it with the photograph. While the Indian head shown on the coin is a composite picture, the likeness to Two Guns is apparent. He might have been the "invisible model" for the head—evidently he stood out strikingly in the artist's mind.

And it is fitting that Two Guns' likeness should adorn the coin. The old order has changed, and only a modern Indian, alive to the interests of the modern world, would represent the first families of America at the present day. He represents the new Indian, who is taking his place in the sun, alert to the opportunities around him, ambitious and successful.

Date of Winged Victory
That famous treasure of the Louvre in Paris, the great headless figure of a woman known as the "Nike," or "Winged Victory of Samothrace," is now believed by a German scholar to have been a rotive statue by a sculptor living in the decade 190 to 180 B. C., according to a report from Berlin in the Art News. The dispatch states further that this scholar, Prof. Hermann Thiersch of Göttingen, has further identified it as the work of a sculptor named Polikritos, who lived upon the island of Rhodes.

ONTEORA CLERGY CLUB HELD ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Onteora Clergy Club was held at Round Top Monday, July 25. About 10:15 a. m. the ministers and their families began to gather at the Round Top Church Grove and a check up at luncheon gave Ernest G. Glenn of Grand Gorge and Robert Baines of East Kingston equal honors for family attendance, each having four children present. Robert McLaren of Ashland, W. S. Rich of Round Top, A. P. Lakeberg of Coeyman's Hollow and J. C. Easton of Sauger-ties proved to be the best home shoe pitchers.

After a hearty repast about 12:30 noon at the grove the club proceeded to "The Winter Clove" where Mrs. Little Clark threw open her beautiful establishment for the members, many games and sports were entered into by the club members upon these private grounds and much fun was had at the well equipped swimming pool. A golf match was held between Brothers Eason, McLaren and Baines against Brothers Glenn, Seaman and Grade. Brother Glenn's team covered the 12 hole course with 91 strokes while it took 100 strokes for Brother Eason's team to go around the course. Brother McLaren making 36 high and Brother Grade 29 low.

A brief business meeting was held at the grove and it was decided to accept the invitation of the Rev. Orson Rice to hold the September meeting in Roxbury. The Rev. C. B. Livingston of Hensonsville accepted the invitation to preach the sermon at the morning session. A committee was appointed to invite Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard to address the club at the afternoon session and if not able to attend the Rev. R. Don Ocheltree of Windham will occupy the time allotted to Mrs. Shepard with the assistance of Fred W. Stine of Andes. Time will also be devoted to sightseeing in Roxbury so Brother Eason, the president of the Onteora Clergy Club, predicted the Roxbury meeting will be one of the happiest yet held.

As the sun turned to the west the tired picknickers shook hands all around and expressed their appreciation to all who had made their day such a wonderful success and with radiant hopes turned their cars homeward.

Bright Spots Appear In Business World

(By The Associated Press.)

Bright spots continue to appear on the business map.

In addition to the advance in the securities market yesterday, the following items were gleaned from the news:

The Tulsa (Okla.) World said the Consolidated Oil Company has made a profit the first six months of 1932, with economies assisting. The profit, not yet been announced, contrasts with a loss of about $20,000,000 reported for the corresponding period last year by the Sinclair and Prairie companies merged into the Consolidated concern last January.

At North Worth, Tex., the Williamson-Dickie Clothing Manufacturing Company, is working a night shift for the first time in two years and adding 150 operators.

The Illinois Highway Department announced 5,100 men are at work on highway construction, a considerable increase over recent months.

More than 175 employees will be recalled by the Florence Store Company of Gardner, Mass., which will go on full time.

William H. Parsons, New York engineer, said he plans to reopen soon an extensive quarry at Branchville, Conn., to mine silica, mica and feldspar. That will mean jobs for 150 when the plant is in full operation, he said.

The Crosley Radio Corp. cut its net loss from $144,938 in the three months ending June 30, 1931, to $77,693 for the corresponding period
this year.

At Superior, Wisconsin, the grain committee of the northwest shippers advisory board forecast that big crops in the near-northwest would require greatly increased transportation facilities. For grain alone, the forecast said, nearly three times
the facilities used in July, August and September last year will be required in the similar period this year.

English Tin and Lead

Mines Oldest in World

The province of Quebec, according to a recent statement, has an iron mine that was opened a little more than two centuries ago and continued in operation until well into the present century. This record gives the Canadian mining industry a respectable antiquity, but it does not compare in age with ore-production activities in other parts of the world.

Probably the oldest mines still producing ores are the tin and lead lodes of Cornwall, England, which date from the days when there was no recorded history. The ancient duchy, with its "stannaries," or tin mines,
has been famous in mining history for hundreds of years. Near the tin mines are bodies of lead ore which have been worked nearly as long as those of tin. The latter were first opened in or before the Age of Bronze, have never been shut down completely and are, therefore, the world's oldest mines in continuous operation. A few years ago there was a revival of business at the Cornish mines, accompanied by the sinking of new shafts and the discovery of new lodes.—New York Times.

No Absolute Stillness

While Life Is in Body

Can you keep still? You will say,
"Of course." But try to keep absolutely still for a moment, and you will discover how difficult it is. While there is breath in the body, we can never be completely still. Some part of us is always on the move. At least the heart is beating, there is movement in the pulse, the eyelids twitch.

When you come to think of it, this is rather remarkable. But some of us are more still than others. Those who have learned the art of relaxing are better able to keep still than those who cannot—in other words, those who are always fidgeting. Usually it is the more nervous type of individual who cannot be still. And if we do not practice it, we shall never learn the art.

It is a great art—this keeping still.
Stillness of body comes from stillness of mind. When happiness is yours, there will be a lovely stillness in your life.—Exchange.

Egyptian Writing

The Egyptian system of writing, after being forgotten for over fifteen hundred years, was rediscovered by scholars in the Nineteenth century. The chief key was the Rosetta stone, found by the French when Napoleon invaded Egypt. This contained an inscription written in the old Egyptian characters and also in Greek. Patient study showed which Egyptian signs corresponded with the known Greek letters in certain proper names. From this the sound of some of the Egyptian words was revealed. Then it was found that Coptic, a language still understood by the Christian Egyptians, was a direct descendant of the ancient Egyptian tongue, and thus the meanings of many words could be guessed. Since then progress has been steady.

The Fame of Bengal

What the Well-Dressed Lady Wears in Darjeeling.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNC Service.)
BENGAL, province, India, fearing extinction of its rhinoceroses, due to wholesale shooting, has made killing or injuring of these animals illegal except in cases of self-defense.

Bengal, straddling the northernmost point of the Bay of Bengal, and stretching northward to the foothills of the Himalayas, owes much of its fame to an animal—the Bengal tiger which inhabits most large zoos.

The province is one of the most thickly inhabited areas of the world.
It is nearly equal in area to the state of Kansas and as many people live within its borders as inhabit
New York state, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas and Michigan.
More than eighty different languages are spoken, not to mention the many dialects.

The narrow northern extremity of Bengal resembles that of Idaho. Like Idaho, the province spreads out as it stretches southward. But after leaving that extremity, no one could charge Idaho with having such de-formity of shape, for the border line of Bengal zigzags in all directions.

Bengal's gateway is its most homely feature. The water that surrounds the coast is laden with silt, brought down from the north by the Ganges and a labyrinth of rivers and creeks that pierce the coast line. Waterlogged jungles, infested with tigers and other wild animals, lie between these channels. These wilds and the swampy lowlands immediately north of them are called the Sundarbans.

When the Ganges goes on its annual rampage and overflows its banks for 200 miles from its mouth, the Sundarbans are submerged. The less flooded area is planted in rice and it is an interesting sight to see "row boat farmers" tending their submarine crops. When the water subsides, it leaves a fertile layer of earth that causes jute, rice and wheat, and many other products to thrive in this region.

Nearly all Bengal is a flat, fertile plain from the Sundarbans to the foot of the Himalayas which is reached after a day and night of rough train riding. A narrow gauge railroad is then taken to reach Pen-gal's roof, Darjeeling. The snake-like course of the railroad passes thousands of acres of tea plants that,
from a distance, resemble fields of boxwood hedge. Some of the plants grow six feet tall in Bengal, and are stripped of their leaves five times a year.

Calcutta, the capital of the province, is one of the most progressive cities of the East, with all the modern devices to handle its tremendous commerce and entertain its native and foreign population. In less than 250 years it has become the largest city in India and second only to London in the British empire.

To the traveler who approaches
Calcutta by water, its growth is a mystery. At the mouth of the Hooghly, the Indigo blue water of the Bay of Bengal turns to a dirty brown.
For much of the 80-mile trip mud flats and water-logged forests form the river-side scenery with no evidence of civilization save for the commercial crafting the river. Only the most skilled pilot can steer a vessel up the shifty channel.

When almost within sight of Calcutta, the smoke stack of a jute mill and here and there groups of native-thatched huts break the monotony of the journey and then, rounding a bend,
the great Indian port appears.

Hindus at the Bath

Bathing ghats on both banks now are filled with Hindus. One of the popular ghats is at the botanical gardens, where grows the famous Calcutta banyan tree. It covers nearly two acres and has about 250 trunks. A short distance beyond, perspiring natives loading and unloading ocean-going vessels solve the secret of Calcutta's development—commerce. Small boats resembling the Chinese sampans clustered about the wharves or floating leisurely to and from Howrah, Calcutta's manufacturing district on the other side of the Hooghly, handle much of the local small freight.

Like most large cities, Calcutta has its slums with squalid houses of mud and thatch, and sometimes brick, bordering narrow, dirty streets and im-

habited by half-starved, unkempt natives.

Dalhousie square, a few blocks from the Hooghly is an attractive parkway.
The post office, which faces its lake bears a tablet designating the vicinity of the famous Calcutta Black Hole episode.

The Maidan, Calcutta's "Mall," with its race track, cricket fields and gardens, is the rendezvous for sport lovers and promenaders. In the evening the "who's who" of Calcutta are there.
Colorful Indian rajahs with their servants in native costume, wealthy natives and government officials, both British and Indian, rub elbows on the walks or swiftly pass in their foreign cars with chauffeurs whose costumes and uniforms represent myriad styles and colors of the East and West.

Fort William occupies much of the river side of the Maidan. Nearby are the Eden gardens. In the southeast corner Queen Victoria has been memorialized by a magnificent building in Italian Renaissance. Its central dome of pure white marble came from the same quarries from which the marble for the Taj Mahal was hewn. The white marble palace of the governor of Bengal, overlooking the Maidan
from the north, was the residence of the Viceroy before the capital was removed to Delhi in 1912. This and the palatial residences, clubs and public buildings along the Maidan's eastern side, gave to Calcutta the name "The City of Palaces."

Darjeeling, nestling among the foothills of the Himalayas, is Bengal's summer resort. Like Simla, 700 miles farther west, and Srinagar in Kashmir,
Darjeeling is a godsend to perspiring
Europeans who must spend the hot period in India. But it is more than a cool retreat: It is a matchless observation post, when the clouds permit, for the mightiest mountain scenery that the world affords. Forty-five miles to the northward, across deep chasms and beyond tier after tier of foothills, rises Kinchinjunga, 28,156 feet high, buttressed by half a dozen peaks from 20,000 to 24,000 feet in altitude.

Perched on a Ridge

Darjeeling stands on a sort of stage before and above which sweep the amphitheater slopes of Himalayan heights. The town is perched on and strides a steep ridge that rises about 7,000 feet from the Bengal plains. On the side toward the mountains the ridge drops away for approximately 6,000 feet, forming what might, in American terminology, be called "the Grand Canyon of the Ranjit," but whose heavily forested slopes and tropical luxuriant floor earns in India
the more poetic name of "Val of Ranjit."

Darjeeling has characteristics unlike those of most towns. It can hardly be said to have streets. Most of the buildings face on paths or walks which run along the main ridge and out on to its minor spurs, or work their way
by serpentine routes to other paths that cling to the steep sides of the slopes. Steps, too, serve in place of roads, connecting terraces that rise one above the other. One of the few carriage roads is a driveway that skirts the lower end of the main ridge and leads below to the suburb Lebong
and its barracks for British soldiers.

The villas, bungalows, shops, government buildings, hospitals, churches, schools, barracks and native huts that make up Darjeeling and its suburb form pendant communities, like giant saddles thrown over the ridge. Dwellings are scattered down the slopes for a thousand feet, the ground floors of one tier on a level with the roofs of the next tier below. If one must cover much space in Darjeeling he rides on pony back or is carried in a litter by four servants.

The center of Darjeeling is Observatory Hill, a knoll on the crest of the ridge. Topping the knoll is a Buddhist monument and surrounding it is a small forest of staves from which prayer flags flutter their supplications.
From the benches near the monument
one may sit, when mist and clouds do not interfere, and take advantage of Darjeeling's best view of mighty Kinchinjunga and its fellows. But often the view is fruitless. It is only for relatively brief periods during the spring and early winter that one may be sure of long, uninterrupted views of the towering granite and ice walls and snowy slopes to the north.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." This well remembered story of the stage and screen proves to be a personal triumph for Marion Nixon in the title role that Janet Gaynor refused to take. Miss Nixon gives the most beautiful and moving performance of her career in this romantic and restful talking picture.
A picture recommended for both old and young, for this closely adapted story from the silent version of a few years back, has taken on added effectiveness with the addition of voice. Ralph Bellamy, Louise Clow-ser Hale, and Mae Marsh are also in the cast.

Orpheum: "Traveling Husbands," and "Border Devils." Evelyn Brent is the star of the first talkie on this double feature program, and she is supported by Frank Albertson and Constance Cummings. The title tells the story. "Border Devils," Harry Carey goes around the Mexican bad lands in this, his latest picture, righting wrongs, getting in as much trouble as possible, until the final scene.

Broadway: "International Revue" on the stage, and "Beauty and the Boss" on the screen. The stage show is a musical comedy presentation of Ben Marcus, with a cast of fifty people. There are a number of elaborate scenes, and the large troupe give an enjoyable and diversified program, that includes singers, dancers and comedians. "Beauty and the Boss." A swell cast that includes Marian Marsh, William Warren, David Manners, and Charles Butterworth all work hard in this enjoyable little talkie of love and big business.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "Secret Service" and "Salvation Nell." Richard Dix is the star of the first talkie, a story of the Civil War. Shirley Grey and Nance O'Neill are in the supporting cast. "Salvation Nell" is played by Helen Chandler, supported by Ralph Graves.

Broadway: Same.

Exploded Illusions

Fond illusions about animals have been destroyed. For instance, says the Los Angeles Times, polar bears do not eat fish but grizzlies will.
African apes actually turn pale when they hear the lions roar; Indian apes listen with indifference to lions, but go insane with terror when they hear the Belgian tigers. Man of war birds will eat only fish that are thrown into the air by keepers where they can catch them on the fly. Wild parrots learn to talk from tame parrots put in the cages; the wild animal market is "long" on lions; they can't even be given away.

Wellington Nominated Himself

When George IV requested the duke of Wellington to form a ministry, nothing was further from his thoughts than making the duke the premier. When the king, then at Windsor, opened the dispatch box containing the duke's list, he burst into an exclamation of mingled mirth and amazement: "D—n his eyes! I asked him to make out for me a list of a cabinet, not to put his own name at the head of it." But George IV hated "trouble"; the duke's name stood at the head of the list, and the king let it remain.—From the London Spectator, February, 1832.

Youthful Reasoning

Seven-year-old Jean was being grilled by mother preparatory to a test in second-grade arithmetic. Jean knew very well how many pints in a quart, how many quarts in a bushel, and so forth. Mother then asked her how many nickels there were in a quarter.

"One," was the reply.
"Now, you know better than that,"
corrected mother.

"No, that is right," retorted Jean.
"One nickel and two dimes."

DULUX WHITE

for Exterior Painting

HOW long does the white paint on your home retain its original beauty? It's probably dull and gray before the first year has passed. This remarkable new du Pont finish keeps its freshness and its brilliant whiteness far, far longer than the finest house paints you have ever used before.

Your house will actually stay whiter. Storms and weather, the enemies of most paints, keep your house white when it's painted with Dulux.

Dulux quickness in drying, its added years of beauty, its durability—are all qualities which make for real economy in house painting.
